WE NOMINATE

Charles Grosvenor Osgood, one of the most beloved of all Princetonians and possibly the community's most steadfast opponent of education "preoccupied with mere things instead of men," who this week (on Friday, May 4th) is calmly and delightedly observing his 85th birthday. At a time of life "when one is expected to grow old," Osgood, in his 51st year as a Princetonian and some two decades after his voluntary retirement from the Princeton University Faculty, is putting the finishing touches to a staggering work of scholarship, the ten-volume variorum edition of the poetry and prose of Edmund Spenser, the poets' poet of the 16th century. Within the next few days Osgood hopes to complete for autumn publication the index to Spenser's poetic writings.

This past winter, in planning for the University's observance of the Woodrow Wilson Centennial Year, it was to Osgood, one of Wilson's original "preceptor guys," that the Princeton National Alumni Association turned for guidance. Several weeks before alumni convened on the campus for a series of preceptorials, or conference-type classes, devoted to the meaning of liberal education, the Princeton Alumni Weekly published as "required reading" for alumni scholars an Osgood essay entitled "Education of Philosophers for Democratic Society." In this stirring and widely circulated piece. Osgood spelled out such refreshing Wilsonian ideals as "it is not the curriculum but the life and flesh that animates it that is the heart of the subject."

Over the years Osgood, a native of Wellsboro, Pa., and a member of the Yale University Class of 1894, has never hesitated to speak out on the problems confronting American higher education. While deploring the present drift to popular and vocational studies, and the resultant drying-up of the "great one-time reservoirs of humanity and wisdom," he holds forth positive hope for creating a "new generation of teachers"—meaning men and women "proficient in the best technical training we can give, but men and women who have been led to transcend that training with a passionate interest in human beings and their needs, and a pretty definite idea of what those needs are."

Since relinquishing the Holmes Professorship of Belles Lettres, Princeton University's oldest endowed chair, in 1937 in order to devote more time to his own writing, Osgood has held several visiting lectureships, one at Princeton Theological Seminary and two in the Folger Shakespeare Library, and has been awarded honorary degrees by Princeton and Yale. Long active as a member of the New Jersey Public Library Commission and for 15 years a trustee of Princeton's ever-growing Public Library, he continues to serve as an elder of the First Presbyterian Church and to enjoy membership in the American Philosophical Society and the Modern Language Association. And if pressed for comment—even on his 85th birthday—he will quietly point out that a man must "keep a-going."

For understanding that the real teacher is the individual who doesn't scorn the multitude but "rather loves it to the point of dedicated service;" for insisting that a "fact cut off from an idea or ideal is sterilized;" for "infecting" others with the energies of his character; he is for the second time in a decade TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

Patience Rewarded. Spring, which came to the calendar on March 20, came to Princeton on April 28. After suffering through a late March blizzard, an early April snowstorm and seemingly endless cold, wet days, Princetonians last weekend finally felt the temperature soar upwards into the balmy 80's.

It didn't last long, of course. Early morning temperatures this week skidded to the low '40's, and had all kinds of trouble making it 20 degrees milder during the day.

Officially, April was nearly 70 degrees colder than normal for the month, but impressions to the contrary, precipitation was a fraction of an inch below average. The long-range forecast for the next two weeks indicates more of the same: temperature slightly below normal and rainfall about as usual.

Penn 2, Princeton 0

University officials, to whom "the Hiss case" was anything but amusing, finally got at least one laugh out of the post-mortems.

Two Daily Princetonian reporters who had reserved press tickets for the Penn Relays at Philadelphia's Franklin Field, arrived at the gate to pick them up. Identifying themselves to the guard was a major error, however. On learning that they came from Princeton, "where you guys let that Hiss fellow in," he flatly refused them admission.

A half-hour debate on the merits of the case followed. At the end of that time, catching constant glimpses of runners whirling around the track, the two wiser but poorer reporters finally paid their way in.

The scenery is, however, vastly improved. Stark black and dull brown have been chased—presumably for months to come—by breath-taking greens, yellows, reds and shimmering white.

The inner man drank deep with his eyes, and contentment spread through his soul. Spring in Princeton was his time of year.

Hiss-teria Now Hiss-tory. Princeton University breathed in an air of pleasant normalcy this week as spring replaced the stigma of Alger Hiss and the deluge of controversial mail trickled to a virtual standstill, thus permitting college officials to turn their attention to other academic subjects. No one forgot that the perjurer-turned-personifier finally appeared and spoke here, but everyone seemed happy the show was over.

Still unhappy, to varying degrees, were an untold number of Princeton alumni who voiced their disapproval of the condemned speaker or Whig-Clio's unauthorized invitation or even the united hands-off policy endorsed by University President Harold W. Dodds and Princeton's Board of Trustees. Time was expected to heal some of the wounds, though vitally concerned officials admitted that a few alumni will never fully recover.

On the other side of the ledger, there were friends and observers as well as alumni who came to the considered conclusion that the presentation of Mr. Hiss will do Princeton more good than bad in the long run. They cited such arguments as President Dodds' contention that undergraduates must be given opportunities to make important decisions on their own, and the belief that the boundaries of academic freedom are shrinking elsewhere along the educational front.

Supporters and maligners alike were impressed by the manner in which University undergraduates handled themselves during Mr. Hiss' appearance last Thursday evening. Obviously heeding the request of Dr. Dodds that they act with dignity and, at the same time, displaying a new realization of their own importance to Princeton, they created no stir and watched developments with quiet interest.

Gendarmes Not Necessary. The Hiss hub-bub, built up over the tortuous course of three weeks, prompted University leaders to take logical precautions and call on proctors and plainclothes policemen, plus athletic coaches, to stand vigil in, on and around Whig Hall, site of the speech. But no police action was necessary and, though the speaker himself said he thought a second Battle of Princeton had been brewing, the event came off easier than Princeton's last football victory over Lehigh.

On the eve of the over-ballyhooed address, Father Hugh Halton, disturbed director of Princeton's Aquinas Foundation, introduced an address by Willard Edwards, Chicago Tribune staff correspondent, and re-iterated his attack against President Dodds' hands-off position. Students in a packed audience booed Father Halton and then cheered Mr. Edwards' documented review of the Hiss perjury trials, so there was reason to expect a demonstration or trouble the next night. Especially when symbolic jack-o-lanterns, containing photos of a Woodstock typewriter and strands of microfilm, were found all over the campus on Thursday morning.

numbered the equivalent of a Princeton-Yale football game press corps, were surprised by the lack of news material outside the hall and were disappointed by the speech itself. While Mr. Hiss spoke with polish and apparent knowledge of "The Meaning of Geneva," he offered little that hadn't been said by someone in authority and, much to the dismay of his listeners, skipped lightly over the Yalta conference, which he knew so well.

Because they were seeking the spectacular and were unable to corner it, many reporters, photographers and TV cameramen chose to distort the truth—perhaps to give them a reason for being here. Fiery stories were written, including those which told of the entire faculty being placed on patrol, and, when Mr. Hiss managed an unphotographable exit through the rear of Whig Hall, cameramen asked students to wave at them, only to print in captions on Friday that the undergraduates were cheering Mr. Hiss.

Most of the newspapers, fortunately for Princeton, understood the situation and recorded the anticlimactic events with unbiased objectivity. Included among these was Mr. Edwards' journal, the Chicago Tribune.

Grand Jury Picked. Superior Court Judge Howard Ewart told the new Mercer County Grand Jury that crimes of violence, particularly atrocious assault and armed robbery are on the increase in his first charge to the body.

Among the jurors seated on the panel were Thomas F. Huntington, 73 Allison Road; Wilbur M. Young, 67 Olden Avenue; David R. Saunders, Cold Soil Road, and Mrs. Virginia Egbert, 30 Nassau Street.

More People, More Problems. The newly named Princeton United Community Fund underscored the recent tremendous growth of Princeton this week as it released a preliminary estimate of $146,595 for its fall goal, an increase of $25,880 over the Community Chest's 1955 amount. Fund leaders said the total was based strictly on present population figures, with no allowance for prospective future expansion.

At an experimental session, attended by 125 volunteers and designed to review financial requests of the 10 participating agencies, five panels of 20 or more persons each listened with interest as the various groups outlined their services and explained their problems in meeting fast-growing community needs. Gerald Nelson, chairman of the Fund's budget committee, told the working panels he hoped they would assist the committee "in arriving at a budget which will be fair and equitable to the member agencies as well as being a realistic goal which can be attained in the Fund drive this coming fall."

"Merwick" Conversion

Princeton Hospital has awarded a $450,000 contract to a Hackensack contractor, lowest of three bidders, for the conversion of "Merwick" into a long-term nursing facility for elderly, convalescent and chronically ill patients. Work will start at once, with the project estimated by John H. Wallace, Jr., president of the hospital's governing board, to require approximately a year.

Located at 79 Bayard Lane, "Merwick" is the home of the late Bishop and Mrs. Paul Matthews and was given to the hospital in 1954 by Thomas S. Matthews as a memorial to his mother. The three-story structure will be remodelled to accommodate 42 patients and will provide an adjunct to the hospital's facilities unduplicated in New Jersey.

The Fund's youth agencies, particularly affected by population increases, informed the volunteers that their requests for extra money were based on needs for staff additions. They requested raises as follows: YWCA, $6,541; YMCA, $5,463; Boy Scouts, $2,097; and Girl Scouts, $175 (the latter a modest figure due to a combination of rent-free quarters, which may taken away by final budget time, and exceptional volunteer service).

Family Service asked for an additional $4,380, chiefly to supply personnel to carry a heavier case load of clients, while Princeton Nursery School requested a hike of $1,013, primarily to cover building maintenance and salaries. The Visiting Nurse Association, anxious to cover more territory and jump its total calls from 2,279 last year to 3,500-plus by enlisting a second nurse, indicated its desire for a budget of $12,510, or an increase of $6,010.

Proceedings of all panel discussions were recorded in shorthand by volunteer secretaries, and, after editing by the panel chairmen, the records and panel recommendations will be transmitted to the Fund. Action by the budget committee is expected sometime later this month.

Serving as chairmen of the five groups were Gordon Marsh, Thomas P. Cook, John P. Poe, Mrs. J. T. Woodward and Mr. Nelson. Their secretaries were Mrs. Shirley Frangos, Miss Anna Rusinko, Mrs. Jacqueline Rogers, Miss Louise Smith and Miss Alma Eusebetti.

Health Board Chosen. Five citizens of Princeton Township, long familiar with its problems of growth, were named this week by the Township Committee to serve as the first members of the newly created Township Board of Health. They will meet within the next week to set the organization's gears in motion.

Hugh D. Wise Jr., Princeton-Kingston Road, was selected to a two-year term on the board and, in view of the fact that he is already Township Committeeman in charge of health, he will act as temporary chairman of the new group.

Others picked for the Board of Health were Dr. Archibald D. Sheeran, Rosedale Road, also for two years; Mrs. Robert G. McAllen, 66 Battle Road, for a one-year term; and Stuart Robson, 29 Rollingmead, and Gustave Eisemann, 36 Hillside Avenue, both for three-year terms. The former, assistant Township tax assessor, is running unopposed for the post of tax assessor this year, while the latter is former Chief of Police of the Township.

Mr. Wise noted that appointments henceforth will all be for three years, but were staggered for the first board so that there will be at least one change and never more than two each year.

Set W & G Sale Date. Barring an unexpected private-sale agreement by Friday between Robert A. Benham and Robert D. McCarthy, partners in the Wine & Game liquor shop, 6 Nassau Street, a public sale of the business' assets will be held at 11 a. m. next Wednesday in the Nassau Tavern. Alfred J. Pietrinferno, receiver in the matter, announced the public disposal date when it became apparent this week that private negotiations will not be affected by either of the co-owners.

A month ago, Judge Thomas Schettino of Mercer County Superior Court ordered dissolution of the 10-year-old partnership through private handling, if possible, and then through public sale, if neither partner could obtain control of the store. It appeared likely that Mr. Benham or Mr. McCarthy will make a move at next week's sale to purchase the whole, with or without financial backers.

Princetonian Badly Hurt. An 80-year-old Princeton resident, Oscar S. Stillwell, 22 Edgehill Street, remained in "critical" condition at mid-week following a Route 206 head-on auto collision last Saturday afternoon. The victim was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Joseph M. Stillwell, 84, of the same address, who sustained only minor injuries.

Observers at the scene of the crash and Princeton Hospital officials credited Township Patrolman Walter V. Emann with saving the life of the badly hurt passenger before he was taken to the hospital. Arriving on the spot, at the intersection of Ewing Street and the main highway, moments after the collision, Patrolman Emann exerted pressure on a wide cut beneath Mr. Stillwell's chin, slowing the flow of blood.

Investigators, with the help of witnesses, managed to reconstruct the unfortunate accident. The Stillwells were traveling south on 206 behind two cars, the first operated by an unknown person and the second by Walter Ellsworth, Plainsboro. When the first auto stopped to make a left turn into Ewing, Mr. Ellsworth halted behind him, because both could see a fourth vehicle approaching in the opposite lane, heading north.

HISS HUSTLES, PROVES CAMERA SHY: Caught in the act of moving quickly from a station wagon up the steps of Whig Hall, controversial speaker Alger Hiss does his best to shun cameramen and informs TV announcers and newspaper reporters that he has "no comment" for them. This mad scramble by the media visitors, who hoped for better shots of Mr. Hiss after the address but were eluded by his back-door exodus, represents the only real confusion of an otherwise "lull-after-the-storm" evening. For summary details of the convicted perjurer's visit, see Topics of the Town.

Apparently, the driver of the Stillwell car failed to see the oncoming auto, driven by Alexander J. Reid, Skillman, for he pulled around Mr. Ellsworth's vehicle and proceeded head-on into the Reid car. Mr. Reid, who with his wife, Elsie, was not seriously injured, told Township police he was able to bring his auto to a standstill before the impact took place. Oscar Stillwell was thrown against the windshield of his brother's car, hard enough to shatter the glass. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

Pedestrian Bowled Over. There was commotion galore around the intersection of Witherspoon and Spring Streets at mid-morning Tuesday as excited onlookers sought to determine the fate of a 63-year-old woman who was struck by a truck. Miss Sue Hopkins, 115 Linden Lane was knocked down by the panel truck of Vincent Tamasi, 43 Moran Avenue, while she was crossing Spring and he was pulling from a parking space on Witherspoon into Spring.

Taken to Princeton Hospital in a station wagon by police and First Aid Unit members, whose ambulance was on duty elsewhere at the time, Miss Hopkins was given eight stitches for her lacerated scalp and treated for contusions of the face and left arm as well as shock. Police said the fact that Mr. Tamasi's truck had just left a parked position probably prevented any broken bones, which hospital X-rays confirmed.

Banks to Merge. The directors of Princeton Bank and Trust Company and Hopewell National announced last week that they have agreed on a merger and will shortly submit a plan to stockholders and regulatory authorities.

George R. Cook 3rd, president of the Princeton institution now in its 122nd year, and Edward U. Hill, head of the 67-year-old Hopewell Institution, told stockholders and employees that the combined bank will be known as Princeton Bank and Trust Company, but the identity of the Hopewell Bank will be retained as far as possible. All present offices and employees will remain.

The combined bank will have resources of over $26 million, including capital funds of $1.6 million, composed of capital of $350,000, surplus of $900,000 and undivided profits in excess of $350,000.

Shares in Princeton Bank (25,000 at $10 par value) will be retained by present holders and the 10,000 shares ($10 par value) of Hopewell Bank will be exchanged for 10,000 additional shares in the new combined bank. The directors intend to place the shares of the combined bank on a dividend basis of not less than $2.40 per share, representing an increase in the dividend rate to Hopewell National Bank stockholders.

The present 12 directors will be joined by Mr. Hill, Dr. J. Reginald Pierson and Herbert S. Rockwell of the present Hopewell board to give a combined total of 15 directors. The remaining directors of the Hopewell Institution will continue with others to serve as an advisory board to the combined bank.

Kingston Bridge Out. With unexpected suddeness, an eight-man crew from the State Highway Department descended on Kingston Monday morning and went right to work on demolition of the "middle bridge" over the Millstone River. At Taylor, foreman on the job, wouldn't guess the age of the well-worn wooden structure, "but it's at least 50 years old, maybe more."

It will take the crew a month to six weeks to erect a new timber bridge, Mr. Taylor said, "providing we don't run into any high water in the meantime." To guard against such interference, temporary dams have been located on both sides of the bridge and water beneath it has been pumped out.

The foreman observed that he and his men were surprised to discover the rotten condition of the planks in the old bridge, and also were surprised to learn that they are working in two counties on the job (the Somerset-Middlesex line splits the Lincoln highway at the bridge). Princetonians and Kingstonians were surprised, too, when they found out Monday that they face a fair-sized detour for at least a month.

Estes Ain't Bastest

If November's Presidential election was scheduled for tomorrow instead of November, and the Democrats were running Estes Kefauver against Dwight Eisenhower, a solid majority of New Jersey's voters would re-elect Ike. Such a prediction was made this week by the New Jersey Poll, based on a statewide survey just completed.

Although nearly two out of every five persons say they would vote for the Tennessee senator, the resultant three-to-two margin for the President would give him 59% of the ballots, with Mr. Kefauver winning 38% and the other 3% undecided. Ike, in other words would probably run as well against Estes as he did in 1952 against Adlai Stevenson, if not better.

The Poll indicated that one major source of the President's support will come from one out of every four Democrats across the state, while his challenger could expect only three in each 100 Republicans to switch parties and vote for him. At the same time, Independents would favor Mr. Eisenhower by a three to two count.

News of the Theatres

VARIETY

"Richard II" Planned. Plans are reported afoot to ready a production of Shakespeare's "King Richard II," with a number of well-known Princetonians leading the way. A run of two weeks in Princeton at the end of the summer is planned, to be followed by a bow on off-Broadway boards after Labor Day.

The names of Karl Light (in the title role), John Capsis (as director) and Stuart Duncan are attached to the project. All have played a considerable part in Princeton theatrical activities (including University Players) at various periods. Financial backing and Actors Equity clearance are currently being tackled.

New Film Company. A new organization is searching for actors for a film of the great medieval morality play "Everyman." The group, soon to be incorporated, will be General Films.

"Everyman," due to go before the cameras in the latter part of June, is viewed as a first sample product, to precede regular production of educational and religious films.

Richard Hilliard of 5 Greenholm, who filmed "Adam's Sons" while an undergraduate at Princeton, heads the new group. David De Turk is taking calls at 5687 from persons interested in working in the film.

Summer is Here. Theatrically, summer arrives this Saturday evening with the picturesque Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope opening its doors with Billie Burke in the comedy, "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

The season of 20 shows in 25 weeks will be the 18th consecutive for the barn playhouse. Michael Ellis has returned to take charge as producer.

While opening night is sold out, Miss Burke will appear in "Cadillac" through May 19. Mary Sinclair will appear in "Anastasia" from May 21 to 26, and "The Rainmaker" (May 28-June 2) and "The Seven Year Itch" (June 4-16) will follow. The Bucks County Playhouse presents shows every evening except Sunday and there are matinees at 2 p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

University Players Progress. Summer is a bit further off as far as other groups are concerned. The Lambertville Music Circus opens up June 5 with "The King and I" and the University Players here in Princeton anticipate a June 25 bow.

The Players, who operate in Murray Theatre, have decided on an eight-week season instead of six. They are at the point of final decision on members of the company and appear to have wrapped up the air-conditioning problem.

Reunion-Time Derby. Everyone from reunion chairmen to the Triangle Club and the management of McCarter Theatre are striving for some kind of special theatrical attraction for the big June 8-10 period.

Triangle has been urged to reconstruct its wonderful show of this winter ("Spree de Corps"), but probably won't. Isadore Bennett and Richard Pleasant of the McCarter are battling for a musical if possible for the period, or an equally strong attraction. Bennett & Pleasant are at work on signing up a show for the blank dates in May, too.

MURRAY THEATRE

"The Braggart Warrior," major spring production of Princeton University's Theatre Intime, opens its run of nine performances tonight at 8:30 in Murray Theatre on the campus. The Roman comedy will play nightly except Sunday through Saturday, May 12.

The cast is headed by Nell Duncan of 151 Loomis Court, Nancy Southgate of 55 Wilton Street and Mary Gonzalez of Washington Road, along with D. Bruce Rabbino, G. Remak Ramsey and Jack Schlegel.

Mrs. Duncan stepped in last week as a replacement for Betty Frohling of 12 Stockton Street in the role of the wily heroine. Mrs. Duncan will be in her second lead for Intime, having starred in "The Victors" in 1954. She has appeared in two revivals of the University Players and in summer stock in Washington, Conn.

The comedy is under the direction of Intime president Peter Nicholls of Carter Road. Mr. Rabbino is doubling as set designer. Intime is using a translation by Professor George E. Duckworth of Princeton, plus rare Greek folk tunes recorded by Professor J. A. Notopoulos in Greece.

Written by Plautus more than 2,000 years, the play known in Latin as "Miles Gloriousus" features the themes of trickery, impersonation and mistaken identity, still heavily used in the comedy of today.

Tickets may be obtained through the University Store (5414) and from 8 to 11 p.m. at the box office (3539). They are priced at $1 and $1.20 Monday-Thursday and $1.50 and $1.80 for Friday and Saturday.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Thrusting tongue into cheek in preparation for their forthcoming production of the melodrama "No Mother to Guide Her," the Community Players have offered the following combination of stunt and old-time publicity:

"Any gentleman with genuine handlebar mustaches at least one and one-half inches on either side will be admitted free to any performance of "No Mother to Guide Her," if accompanied by two ladies for whom he holds tickets. Mustaches will be measured at the door of the Murray Theatre where this remarkable comedy-drama will be presented, after weeks of preparation, on Wednesday evening, May 23, and continuing every evening until May 26, by the Princeton Community Players.

"The play will be produced in a very complete and elaborate manner with a cast of great excellence; new and appropriate stage sets designed by Mrs. Irving Van Zandt and entire new scenery painted by Byron Keene, James Hopkins and assistants; new and splendid costumes by Mrs. Toni Dugan; finest properties by Miss Margaret Haseltine; modern electrical illumination effects by Peter Van Zandt; actor's makeup by Mrs. Erling Dorf.

"During the evening appropriate selections will be played on the modern nickelodeon. The play is under the direction of John Becker, assisted bby Lorin Zissman, production manager, and Miss Phebe Gulick, theatre manager."

BALLET PROGRAMS

The Aparri Dancers, assisted by an ensemble chosen from Aparri School of Dance, will make their debut this Saturday, May 5, with a program of original ballets by Miss Mila Gibbons, director of the school. The program will start at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Princeton High School.

The Aparri Dancers are a group of seven, ranging in age from 12 to 26 and including dramatic, lyric, comic and classic dancers. The school prefers to work with original compositions, rather than on simplified versions of Romantic period ballets.

Themes of present day life are used in Miss Gibbons' "The Spiral —A Child Grows Up," taken from Princeton scenes and depicting the growing up of a modern girl.

The other major work on the program is "Love and Mischief," partly an allegory of modern day adult life but including themes of the Romantic period of ballet. Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" will provide the background.

The evening will open with "The Art of Ballet," depicting a classroom in a ballet school where five girls in black leotards go ttrough a basic barre routine, including center work in adagio and allegro, turns and jumps up to full-point technique and a short combination of steps to flute accompaniment.

The Aparri Dancers are Sara Libsohn, Betsy Sessions, Mei-Mei Maurer, Market Harvey, Anne Waldron, Helen Pettit and Eve Gardner. David Lewin, a student of Roger Sessions in composition, will be at the piano. Harry Lacey of Theatre Intime will direct the lighting, and Dorothy Stritesky of Westminster Choir College will play the flute.

"Nutcracker" Preparations. A cast of 170 ranging in size from five-year-olds to faculty members is entering the final week of rehearsals for the Princeton Ballet Society's production of "The Nutcracker." The presentation under the direction of Audree Estey will be given Thursday, May 10, at 3:30 and Friday, May 11, at 8:15 in McCorter Theatre.

Pat Halcomb will play the heroine, a little girl who receives the nutcracker in the shape of a soldier as a Christmas prsent from the clockmaker, played by Bud Estey, who also brings a mechanical doll (danced by Cathy Otis) and a toy soldier (Louise Brickley.)

George Alexander and Anne Wood will appear as the father and mother. Ralph Hulit will have a dual role, as the clockmaker' nephew and the prince who escorts the little girl through the Land of Snowflakes to the Land of Sweets. There is a Christmas party complete with live dolls, toy soldiers, many guests, and battle against rats led by a seven-headed king.

Barbara Dilley, a senior at Princeton High and a ballet study with Mrs. Estey for nine years, will be the Sugar Plum Fairy and do a highlighted solo. The second act in the Land of Make Believe includes the dance of the candy cane by Lanie Johnson, while Lucy James is the Dew Drop Fairy in the Waltz of the Flowers.

Joan Meyer, Louise Brickley and Elinor Coffee will dance a Hot Chocolate, while Tea will be performed by Carol Estey, Penny Bush and Susan Lees. The four Marzipan Shepherdesses will be Joyce Catelli, Anne Readinger, Toni Lees and Martha Mitchell.

Settings in fairyland are being completed by a committee headed by Peter Cook. Mrs. Robert Dilley is in charge of the costume committee—which includes the mothers of all 170 performers.

It's New to Us

Bon Mot. The French house of Lalo has sent to the Town Shop (67 Palmer Square) some patrician stationery, peerless in quality, simple and perfect in design.

Most of the papers are light pearl grey, white, or a shade of blue that might be described as light periwinkle. (A few sets come in light green as well.) There is a note paper, for example, in white with a narrow green edge. Its envelope has a lining on which Parisian buildings have been drawn in white ink. All envelopes in the Lalo collection are lined.

A French envelope, long and narrow, combines paper and envelope in one. Some little notes are single, others folded. One folded note paper is slightly longer and narrower than the conventional form. It is pale blue with deep blue and maroon edging.

For someone who is still practicing, there is a child's note paper with a lined sheet that slips under the paper and shows through so that nobody ever guesses the writer needed a line to guide her. These sheets are white, large enough to take a first grader's sprawl, and decorated at the top with a colored frieze of children and animals.

"Gothique" is a 12 by 18 inch chest with two small drawers of paper and a writing pad of single sheets with a blotter. An expanded writing chest holds 75 pieces in a box about 24 inches long and five inches high.

There are partitions with small deckle-edged cards, single and double notes, French-style envelopes, single sheets—all packed together in a way that should tempt the most negligent correspondent to take up the pen.

This pen might well be a new one that the Town Shop has just acquired. It is a hybrid of 18th and 20th centuries—a ball-point quill! The feather is long, graceful and waving and comes in pink, gooseberry (a kind of green) and various pastels.

You keep it on your writing desk in a small straight-sided cup filled with little colored stones. Stick the point into the stones as you would a dart into a target and your pen is ready for the next billet doux—what else could you ever write with a quill pen?

English place-mats have that look of unassuming quality that we usually associate with British goods. These mats are smaller than ours: 7¼ by 9½ inches, and they are rigid like hot pads with backs of green felt.

The face of each mat is an old print banded with narrow gold and broad wine red, green, or cream. The mats have a dull gloss and they can be cleaned by soap, water and a cloth.

The scenes in many of the mats are American, and you will find a Norwich, Connecticut bridge, the Narrows from Staten Island, views of Baltimore, Saratoga Springs, and so on. Eight of these are $22.50.

Another sequence has prints of old clipper ships, and still another shows scenes of Paris. American cities appear on some larger mats that measure 14 by 10 inches, and there will be English flower prints soon.

Coasters with the same hard, washable surface exhibit a life-sized flower—in one set—or 19th century fishermen in another. A third set is called "Cries of London" and looks very much like Hogarth. These coasters are $7.50 for six and $9.50 for eight.

Man With An 8-Goal Arm

The closest we ever came to polo was the time we executed a daring play in a close game of lawn croquet. Polo is, after all, nothing more than mounted croquet, so if you want to ride while you play, you may investigate a new class in polo-playing that has been formed at the Princeton Riding Club, Bayard Lane.

("You" is used here in a narrow sense, of course; polo is a man's sport and there isn't a woman in the world, apparently, with the arm muscles it takes to hit that ball.)

The new class has been formed around a nucleus of University students and it meets on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays at varying hours under the tutelage of John Jackson, owner of the Riding Club and a life-long polo player.

At the moment, the neophytes are practicing with a big soft rubber ball, but they will soon graduate to a tennis ball and finally to the wooden ball used in outdoor polo. All classes have been held indoors so far, but they will go outdoors when the mud hardens.

pü has all three at her Nassau Street shop (Number 217). Suits of Honan silk are particularly attractive. One is a moot shade called Persian blue, but don't leap at this if you want a blue suit because, by the Shah himself, it's green—a blue green to be sure, but still nowhere near a blue. Go see for yourself.

It consists, what ever its color, of a cap-sleeved dress with fitted jacket that has three-quarter sleeves. Right angles of fabric have been appliqued like arrows pointing out the jacket buttons.

A close relative is taupe silk, sleeveless, with a fitted bolero

Jazz Concert. The Johnny Eaton Quintet, another in the fine tradition of jazz groups at Princeton, will present a concert this Saturday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall. Tickets at $1.50 for a couple and $1 single ere now on sale at the University Store and may be obtained at the door.

The occasion will mark the first formal appearance of the Eaton group here, although it has performed frequently in smaller sessions, on records, and in other colleges and night spots. Wilder Hobson of Valley Road, critic for the Saturday Review, called the undergraduates "chamber jazzmen of rare and sensitive talent."

In addition to Eaton on the piano, the members are Alan Bergman, drums; Dick Lincoln, vibraphone; John Solum, flute, and Edward White, bass.

Houseparties Concert. The Princeton University Glee Club will give its annual Houseparties Concert this Friday evening at 8:30. Tickets at 50c may be obtained at the door.

Carl Wehrich will direct the group in works by Handl, Mozart, Dering, Schubert, Moore, Musorgsky, Kubik, Thompson and Poulenc. The concert will close another successful season for the undergraduate singers, who in addition to spring concerts made the annual spring vacation tour in the South.

Musical Amateurs. The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will hold its final meeting of the season on Sunday, May 13, at 5:15 in Miss Fine's School. Supper reservations should be made by calling Mrs. MacKenty Bryan at 0453 from 2 to 4:30 on weekdays.

Accompanied by orchestra, the Amateurs will sing the Bach B. minor Mass under the direction of Professor J. Merrill Knapp. Soloists will be Eleanor Holly, soprano; Thelma Young, contralto; Robert Cowden '56, tenor, and Fadlou Shehadi, bass.

School Concerts. The children of the Valley Road School band, orchestra and chorus will present a spring concert this Friday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The affair will be open to the public without charge.

More than 100 boys and girls will take part. QUINTET LEADER: Pianist Johnny Eaton in action. The undergraduate group he heads will be heard Saturday in Alexander Hall.

The Princeton High School Choir under the direction of Thomas Hilbish will give the first complete performance of a Mass by Roger Sessions on Tuesday, May 8, at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited to the performance at the Princeton Methodist Church.

News Of The Theatres

PRINCETON '56 TV

The 13th and concluding program in the Princeton '56 television series will be telecast live over Channel 4 this Saturday, May 5, at 6 p.m. The program is titled "The Pursuit of Truth" and will concern the influences of the humanities, physical sciences and social sciences on American life in the last 50 years.

Professors Carlos H. Baker, Department of English; Elmer G. Butler, Department of Biology, and Eric F. Goldman, Department of History, will discuss the subject. Together with their faculty associates ,they have planned the series.

PERIWIG SHOW

The Periwig Club of the Lawrenceville School is presenting "Mister Roberts" as its annual spring production tonight, Thursday, and Friday evening 8 p.m. in McCarter Theatre. Tickets at $2 may be obtained at the box office.

The famed comedy by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan is being directed by Richard T. Congdon, a science teacher at the school.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Patterns (May 3-5) presents a gripping view of the worst of the competitive jungle on the top level of corporation business. Adapted from a TV script, the film may be too extreme in part, but it is a tense and exciting story, exceptionally well acted by Van Heflin, Everett Sloane, Ed Begley, Beatrice Straight and Elizabeth Wilson. A top executive is ruthlessly moved out of his position by his superior.

Serenade (May 6-8) is strictly for the fans of Mario Lanza. The hefty one sings a lot of music, most of it handsome but some rather droopy "pop" stuff. In this devitalized version of the James M. Cain story, Joan Fontaine is the bad woman and Sarita Montiel the good companion and wife.

AUDITION JUDGE: Mary Boxall Boyd, pianist and teacher who resides at 44 Nassau Street, has left for the Texas-Arkansas area as a judge selected by the National Guild of Piano Teachers for its yearly piano contest-auditions. Mrs. Boyd will be judging daily for a period of a month.

"Folk Sing"

An unusual staged folk song program, entitled "3 Folk Sing," will be presented Saturday evening at midnight in Murray Theatre. The extra performance has been scheduled because Friday night is already a sellout. Reserved seats are $1 at the University Store.

The singers will be Ernestine Brown, formerly at Westminster Choir College and now preparing for a New York debut with a quartet; Walt Winter of Swarthmore, Pa., a folk singer for six years, and D. Brooks Jones, president and a start of the 1955 Triangle Show, who has had extensive experience in musicals and folk singing.

The program will range through ballads, blues, spirituals and calypso. Paul Prestopino, a student at Hightstown High, will be the accompanist. He plays the banjo, guitar and otto harp.

Vincent Price is fine as a jaded impresario. In color.

The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit (May 9-15) has the unusual film attribute of a substantial story. The lengthy opus (see special time schedule) runs from the averageness of the man in the G.F.S., to his struggles with the soul-less materialism of the advertising world and the problem of telling his wife about a wartime love affair. Extremely well-acted by Gregory Peck, Jennifer Jones, Frederic March, Marisa Pavan, Lee J. Cobb and others. Color and CinemaScope.

THE GARDEN

The Lady-Killers (May 3-5) finds the comic skill of Alec Guinness being rivalled by little old Katie Johnson who deals amusingly with a crew of bank robbers. Cecil Parker is also in the cast of the combination comedy-melodrama, filmed in color by the British. Completing a week.

A Kid for Two Farthings (May 7-12) is a warm and charming little folk tale set in London's East End. A little boy (wonderfully played by Jonathan Ashmore) searches for a unicorn because he is told of its magical powers. The appealing family picture has David Kossoff as a kindly old tailor, Celia Johnson in a fine character portrayal, and luscious Diana Dors as the love interest. Well directed by Carol Reed. Here for a week.

Obituaries

Anthony deH. Browne, 31, of 70 Cleveland Lane, died April 30 in Princeton Hospital. He was the son of Mrs. Georgeanna Gibbs Browne and the late Dr. Charles Browne.

A lifelong resident of Princeton, he served with the Navy in World War II. Three brothers, including Colston and Archibald Browne of Princeton, also survive. Private funeral services were held under the direction of Kimble Funeral Home.

Gresham Poe, 75, youngest member of the great Princeton football family and a retired investment broker, died April 25 in Baltimore, Md. He had been ill for several years.

Gresham carried on the Poe football tradition established by his older brothers in the 1880's and '90's by quarterbacking the Princeton teams of 1900 and 1901. He also played on the varsity hockey team.

In World War I, he commanded an artillery battalion in France. His brother, John Prentiss Poe, considered the best of the brothers who helped give Princeton football its great name in the sport, had been killed in Flanders.

Neilson Poe of Princeton and Edgar Allan Poe of Philadelphia are the two members of the famous group who survive.

John J. Tkacs, 67, of Mt. Lucas Road died April 29 in Princeton Hospital. He was a retired custodian for the Department of Grounds and Buildings at Princeton.

A native of Trenton, he had lived here for 40 years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Tkacs; five sons, John J. Jr., George, Edward, Michael and Andrew; two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Seamon and Mrs. Irene Smith; 19 grandchildren and two sisters.

Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, with internment following in St. Mary's Grfeek Catholic Cemetery, Trenton.

ed Monday night in the Borough Hall to organize the Princeton Stevenson-for-President Committee and listen to an address by Dr. George F. Kennan.

The former Ambassador to Russia praised Mr. Stevenson, a fellow Princeton graduate, as the most likely candidate to effect a "much-needed national self-scrutiny." Dr. Kennan, co-chairman of the state Stevenson committee expressed his fears about the "naked and undiluted materialism now overrunning our country."

"I am not at all comfortable about our so-called prosperity," Dr. Kennan stated. He concluded by warning that the United States needs a re-evaluation of its world position and State Department leadership "much less afraid of men like Senator Knowland and Senator Jenner."

The group elected John P. Poe, President of the First National Bank, and Mrs. Marver Bernstein, former President of the Princeton League of Women Voters, co-chairmen of the committee. Mrs. Robert Hartle was named secretary and Kermit Rolland treasurer.

In his talk, Dr. Kennan praised the 1952 Princeton Volunteers for Stevenson for their effective work. He said that although there was no Mercer County Stevenson campaign chairman the work for the candidate should still go on strongly.

The Happy Time. Establishing some sort of speed record by dusting off his court calendar in 17 minutes, Borough Magistrate Paul R. Cheseboro also demonstrated his liking for the advent of spring by waiving fines of the two defendants who faced him. Both were students and both paid only $5 court costs.

"HOT DOG" FOR FUN: The frankfurter which Elric Endersby, chairman of the 1956 Membership Enrollment of the Y.M.C.A, is holding may never have shared the "Y" advantages, but its 10-cent cost represents more than a week's membership for a young boy. According to Mr. Endersby, more than 37% of Princeton's boys belong to the "Y". Current drive is aiming at over 40% participation.

Frank B. Andrews, a Princeton University senior, was spared the usual fine for driving through a red light when the magistrate learned that he operates a taxi part-time to help finance his schooling and has been licensed for 10-plus years without a traffic violation. Edward L. Stetson, a Princeton Theological Seminary student, was excused for having illegal plates on his car when the magistrate found out he "was just deperate for transportation" to transfer his family here from the mid-west.

During the course of proceedings, Magistrate Chesebro noted that a reckless driving complaint against William E. Horyak, 193 Harrison Street, has been dropped by Leonard Thomas, 21 Moran Avenue. The magistrate disqualified himself from this case a week ago, requesting another magistrate to handle it because Mr. Thomas' wife is Mr. Chesebro's court clerk.

$50,000 Award to Von Neumann. The Atomic Energy Commission has presented the $50,000 Enrico Fermi award to one of its members, Dr. John Von Neumann of Princeton, for helping develop electronic brains. The late Dr. Fermi received the award in 1954 and Dr. Von Neumann is the first to receive the honor since it was renamed for the pioneer atomic scientist.

In addition to the tax-free cash award, Dr. Von Neumann received a medal and a citation. The Hungarian-born man of science came to Princeton in 1930 as a visiting professor at Princeton and joined the Institute for Advanced Study here in 1933. He succeed Dr. Henry DeWolf Smyth on the A.E.C. last year.

Board Accepts Resignations. Other than the demands of anticipated routine business, the Borough Board of Education was concerned only with the acceptance of resignations and the reading of memorials at its April meeting this Monday.

Reluctantly, the Board endorsed the retirement of Miss Beatrice M. Bedard, Princeton High nurse for the past 33 years (see Mailbox, page 10). Resignations were also received from Mrs. Annette Guenther, Nassau School teacher for two years who will take over a supervisory post in the Trenton school system, and Robert B. Cleary, Quarry School teacher for one year who will move to ETS.

Memorials were designated for Mrs. Margaret Smithers Thompson, former Witherspoon School teacher, and Miss Frances C. Durner, former Nassau School teacher, who both retired in 1935 and died last year.

Hospital Benefit Successful. More than $2,500 was realized during the recent Princeton Hospital Spring Rummage Sale, it has been announced by Mrs. George Bowers, president of the Hospital Aid Committee.

The committee expressed its appreciation to Mercer Engine Company No. 3 for the use of the firehouse where the sale was conducted. Mrs. Bowers expressed the committee's gratitude to the 200 aides and volunteers who helped make the sale a success. She added appreciation for the help of numerous Princeton merchants and shops donating new merchandise.

Finish Wellesley Bazaar Plans. Fire engine rides, pony rides, fish pond nnd other games and a puppet show will be attractions for the youngsters at the Wellesley Bazaar Saturday, May 12. Plans have been completed for the affair, which will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Miss Fine's School.

Other features will be tables of gifts, annual and perennial plants and home-cooked food. Shetland sweaters, tweed skirts, blouses and shorts will also be sold. A lunch bar will provide sandwiches, hot dogs, drinks and ice cream throughout the day.

Legion Plans Benefit. Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, will sponsor a benefit spaghetti dinner next Thursday from 6 to 8 nt its post rooms, 55 Mercer Street. Members and their guests will attend, with tickets $1.50 each.

Marino Ferrara is chairman of the committee in charge. Other members are William Birch, D. D. Richards, Nathaniel McKee, Samuel Davison, Norman Fowler, Elwood Blydenburgh, Elmer Greey, Andrew O'Hara, Henry Robertiello, John Smith and William Haupt.

Kilgore Acquires The Echo. The Princeton Packet has purchased The Echo of New Jersey, a weekly in Pennington which has been published for the past three decades.

Bernard Kilgore, publisher of the Packet and the Wall Street Journal, announced that the Pennington paper will be consolidated immediately. He acquired the Hopewell Herald last fall.

"All The News Worth Publishing"

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Thank you for "Quick as a Flash," which was printed in the April 29 issue. It was very kind of you.

I appreciated the bit of flattery, and the subtle wit. Your paper is always in good taste, and "publishes all the news worth publishing." We look forward to each date of publication.

Boys' Farm Fund Drive. Mrs. Bevis Longstreth is directing the 27th annual appeal here on behalf of the Berkshire Industrial Farm, an institution in the Berkshire Hills of New York which has helped alleviate the problem of juvenile delinquency for over 70 years. Mrs. Longstreth has succeeded the late Rev. Minot C. Morgan as treasurer of the appeal in the community.

Members of her committee, which is carrying on the drive this week, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Lindabury, Mr. and Mrs. David H. McAlpin, Mrs. Minot C. Morgan, Professor William K. Prentice, Mrs. Fenn Stafford, Mrs. Norman B. Tooker, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wallace Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Wicks, Mrs. Charles B. Worden and Mrs. W. H. York.

A large part of the budget for the institution, which includes New Jersey boys in trouble under its program, must be raised in a multitude of large and small gifts. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Longstreth at 25 Palmer Square West.

Dr. Hutchinson to Speak. Dr. Dorothy Hutchinson, who recently returned from a trip around the world sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, will deliver a public address Saturday on "World Disarmament." She will speak at 2:30 p. m. in the Assembly Room of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hutchinson was chairman of a recent community workshop considering disarmament problems held in Philadelphia and sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. She is also a frequent participant in American Friends Service Committee projects. Dr. Hutchinson is literature chairman of the League for Peace and Freedom.

Poster Contest Winners. Miss Eileen Schmidt, a student at Princeton High and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Schmidt, took first prize in the poster contest for the Princeton Ballet Society's production of "The Nutcracker" next weekend.

Margo Chubet, also of Princeton High, received the second place award, and Judith Bernath of St. Paul's was third. Larom B. Munson of the Little Gallery judged the posters, while Mrs. Richard Hart was in charge of the contest. Chester R. Stroup will present the prizes next Friday between the acts of the ballet.

PCD Fair to Feature Archery. Young archers of Princeton still have two weeks to sharpen their eyes and strengthen their arms for the Robin Hood archery contest which will be part of the Princeton Country Day School Fair May 19 on the school grounds. Howard Schrader of Princeton Junction, an expert archer and instructor in archery, will judge the shooting at the fair and will give two demonstrations.

Mr. Schrader is a "14 six-goal man" — comparable in the archery world to a hole-in-one in golf or 300-point bowling. The feat won him automatic membership in the Six-Goal Club of the National Archery Association. He is also the winner of 16 shoots in the eastern United States and placed sixth in a Double American Archery Championship.

Other Robin Hood feats in which members of the Sherwood Forest group can compete will be rope climbing, tight-rope walking and balancing on a log. The fair will offer the usual Midway attractions, including two "china-breaking booths," a sale of baked goods contributed by the school mothers and Country Store.

Jewish Appeal Luncheon. Mrs. Hal Horn, former national chairman of the Women's Division of the United Jewish Appeal, will speak at the Women's Division luncheon Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in the Princeton Inn.

Mrs. Horn has also served as vice-president and member of the board of the Americans Friends of the Hebrew University. At one time she served as proxy for Dr. Albert Einstein in that capacity. Luncheon reservations may be obtained through Mrs. Robert Sauber, (1-1131-W.)

FIRE CODE LEAVES HIM COLD: Informed of the new, statewide air pollution control code that went into effect Tuesday, Elmer Rodweller was one of many Princetonians who told Town Topics' inquiring reporter that it didn't make much sense for Princeton. Mr. Rodweller wasn't impressed by the code's enforcibility either, as evidenced by the papers he is tossing into a backyard incinerator. For his and other opinions, read below. (Alan Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your reaction to the statewide air pollution control code (see box) going into effect this week?

Location: Chestnut Street area (where many householders own and still use unchimneyed incinerators).

Elmer Rodweller, 8 Chestnut Street, retired police sergeant, First Aid Unit ambulance driver: For safety's sake, the new law is okay, but, as I understand the code, it wasn't devised as a safety measure. And, anyhow, there's very little danger in using incinerators if you use them at a reasonable time and place. As far as pollution is concerned, I don't think burning in incinerators causes much of a problem. Lots of other things cause more pollution in Princeton, and they're not in the air. It's hard to tell how many people will pay attention to the code since it's not well publicized and it's going to be difficult to enforce.

Philip Burch, 30 Chestnut Street, graduate student at Rutgers: I have no incinerator, but I certainly have no complaint against people burning papers and smell trash in them. I can see the new code in northern New Jersey, but I can't see it for Princeton. I don't know much about air pollution, but I do know we don't have it to any degree here. If the situation ever gets worse, the code might be worth enforcing. Meanwhile, it promises to be hard to enforce, like the law against jaywalking.

Mrs. Anna Richter, 39 Chestnut Street, housewife: I read about it in your paper, but it makes no sense for our town—as long as incinerators are kept far enough from our homes. The burning doesn't bother me. Why, we even burn stuff without an incinerator sometimes. They're not dangerous at all. If we can't continue to burn papers and the like, our attics are going to accumulate junk and we'll really have a fire hazard. And, if we must leave junk out for collection, it will pile up for weeks. Rain will fall on it, and what a mess we'll have in front of our houses!

William Anderson, 76 Pine Street, patrolman for the state: New Jersey's law enforcers have plenty to do without going around to check each home with an incinerator. It's the only reasonable way to get rid of trash and paper, and it doesn't represent a fire hazard. The new code sounds foolish and unenforceable. Just like the "blue laws," it won't be enforced all the time.

Miss Jane Pierce, Trenton, magazine sales woman: It's news to me, brother, but it's a ridiculous idea for small, non-industrial towns like Princeton. Why, it's a pleasure to breath air here after leaving Trenton. Now that's the kind of place where air pollution control is badly needed. I hope they concentrate on enforcing it there—and how!

Raymond Grover, 33 Chestnut Street, postman: I've never been bothered by the results of incinerator-burning—and I'm one of the worst offenders, if that's what we users are called now. The police

Made to be Broken?

A new, statewide air pollution control code — designed specifically to combat the ills of industrial waste in heavily populated areas — went into effect this Tuesday. Princeton homeowners weren't familiar with the stipulations of the law or terribly concerned about it, as evidenced by responses to Question of the Week, but they were actually violating its technical fine points each time they burned paper or trash in incinerators.

Local law enforcers, admittedly in the dark regarding the code and hopeful that state inspectors will hunt violators (in areas that really need protection from air pollution), were unable to tell Princeton residents much about the law, except that it's okay to use an incinerator with a stack or chimney to burn all commonly burned materials but okay to burn only leaves, weeds and other things that "grow" on the involved property in stack-less incinerators.

Princeton officials weren't too clear about any aspect of the new code—other than the fact that they won't be enforcing it until clearly advised by the state.

STATE 'WHITE HOUSE' TAKES SHAPE: Superintendent Gib Stout of Kingston (left) and Architect Jerry Bronkhorst, representing the Edgar I. Williams firm of New York, discuss plans for rehabilitation of Morven's east wing, which will include library and Governor Robert B. Meyner's suite of rooms—"his private sanctorium," in the architect's words. Already well-started, as the rooftop carpentry indicates, is renovation and extension of the historic mansion's old chimneys. For more about the $170,000 Princeton face-lifting, see Topics of the Town. (Richards Photo)

He'll Be Home for Christmas. Barring unexpected difficulties—like disagreements over proper interior decorating—Governor Robert B. Meyner will be able to move into Morven in time for a Princeton Christmas. A $170,000 rehabilitation job on the historic Stockton Street mansion, built in 1701, is now well under way.

Superintendent Gib Stout, in charge of the extensive construction project for Matthews Construction Company, said his portion of the work, "currently on schedule," probably will be finished by September 1. Interior work, on which the Governor's Committee must agree, will be started sometime in August, "and it's a tough job," he observed.

Right on the building scene much of the time, Architect Jerry Brunkhorst conceded this week that he was impressed by the workmanship and the progress. "It's not easy to make an old place like this one livable, especially since most of it is over 200 years old," the architect explained, "but that's what's happening here. And I think the people of New Jersey will be proud of the effort."

Mr. Brunkhorst called the job "a reasonably complete rehabilitation," though nothing as authentic as Williamsburg. He said there will be a new kitchen wing, containing space for servants and a dining room, and many other new rooms after the interior has been thoroughly changed. When the work is finished, according to Mr. Brunkhorst, there will be 30 rooms in all.

Supt. Stout pointed out that one of the most important tasks was renovation and extension of Morven's chimneys, plus the repointing and painting of all brickwork. To do so, he said, the mansion's 150-year-old front-porch wistaria tree—a real Princeton landmark—had to be appreciably trimmed, but it was saved for posterity.

"No doubt about it, Gov. Meyner's going to enjoy his new home," the superintendent asserted. "And so will his successors. Our state 'White House' should be quite a beauty."

League Elects Officers. Mrs. Harold Cherniss has been elected president of the Princeton League of Women Voters. Others chosen at the annual meeting of the League at the First Presbyterian Church are Mrs. Lewis Kraft, first vice-president; Mrs. John Fine, second vice-president; Miss Braxton Preston, third vice-president; Mrs. Thomas Maloney, recording secretary; and Mrs. Jeanne Bailey, corresponding secretary.

Directors of the League for the coming year are Mrs. G. C. Akerlof, Mrs. Rubin Braunstein, Mrs. Gerald Breese, Mrs. Melvin Gottlieb, Mrs. Herrymon Maurer, Mrs. Glen E. Shrank, Mrs. Martin Schwartzchild, Mrs. Bernard Slade, Mrs. Bevin Smith and Mrs. Martin Summerfield. Members of the new nominating committee are Mrs. Jess Epstein, chairman; Mrs. James Delane, Mrs. Wells Drorbaugh, Mrs. Bernard Slade and Mrs. Howard Vermilya.

The revision of the "Know Your Town" booklet published by the League was included in the agenda adopted for the coming year. A committee will study changes in the community within the last six years. The original booklet has been in great demand, but it is long out of print.

Mrs. Bevin Smith was in charge of arrangements for the annual meeting. She was assisted by Mrs. Cyril Black, Mrs. Frank Bailey, Mrs. John K. White, Mrs. Marvin Soffen, Mrs. Richard Sly, Mrs. A. D. Chiquoine and Mrs. W. G. Findley.

Borough PTA Rummage Sale. The Parent-Teacher Association of the Borough Elementary Schools will hold its spring rummage sale next Thursday and Friday at the Nassau Street School from 9 to 4:30.

Contributions of school-aged children's clothing, costumes, records, books and miscellaneous play equipment will be received on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, preceding the sale. Mrs. John H. Platten Jr., Mrs. Jesse Markham and Mrs. Karl Pettit Jr. are in charge of the affair.

Cub Scout Awards. Twenty-one members of Cub Scout Pack 50 received scouting awards at the group's Pack Meeting last week at Trinity Church. Dr. John Bonner of Princeton University gave a talk on "Nature Study."

Awards were made to the following scouts: Wolf Badge—Tommy Callighan and Alen Medvin; Bear Badge—Walter Daub; Bob Cat Badge—Hugh Davis; general awards—Tommy Callighan, Alan Medvin, Walter Daub, John Poole, Lee Maxwell, Robbie Maxwell, John Markham, Tommy Chubet, John Willis, Jim Hunt, Donald Malko, Henry Lavole, John Carafo, David Peterson, Daniel Peterson, Peter Skillman and Lennart Nelson.

Hun Plans Spring Festival. A number of Princeton residents and businesses have planned exhibits for the third annual Spring Festival at Hun School on Saturday, May 12. The exhibition will be open from 1-5 p.m.

Mrs. Agnes Hoke and Mrs. Mitchell Dielhenn will give a display of the art of arranging dried and artificial flowers to form indoor decoration. A show of the sculpting work of Mrs. Margaret Johnson, teacher at New York's Museum of Modern Art, has also been planned.

Robert Harlow, an artist who will soon open a studio in Port Mercer, will display a number of the canvases which he recently painted in Mexico. Mrs. Paul Furrer, wife of the school's assistant headmaster, will show a number of hand-made Christmas decorations.

Three students at the school, Donald B. Reynolds Jr., of Lower Harrison Street; James A. McFadden 3rd, of 151 Mt. Lucas Road; and Paul E. Orr 3rd, of Provinceline Road., will also have displays. Reynolds will exhibit postage stamps that reflect Princeton history, while McFadden and Orr will have model airplane and tropical fish exhibits.

The Farr Hardware Company has planned a demonstration of the safe use of fire arms, while R.C.A. has arranged for three electronics exhibits. The Little Gallery will display works by Jacques Kupfermann, Tom River painter, and Howard Bradford, California artist.

Benefit by Scholarships. Three girls are attending Radcliffe and Mount Holyoke Colleges this year as winners of annual scholarships awarded by the Radcliffe and Mount Holyoke College Clubs of Princeton.

The two students at Mount Holyoke on scholarships are Miss Susan Kinnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Kinnell of 26 College Road, and Miss Diane Dorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dorn of 218 Adelaide Avenue, Highland Park. Miss Kinnell and Miss Dorn are both members of the freshman choir and have participated in musicol and theatrical activities.

The third student is Miss Merriol Baring-Gould, a freshman at Radcliffe and the daughter of Mrs. Thrall Baring-Gould, of 47 Snowden Lane. Miss Baring-Gould is concentrating in biology and does volunteer case-work.

The scholarships are made possible largely through an annual tour of notable houses in the Princeton area. This year, "Open House" will be held May 19.

Bird Walk Planned. Princeton naturalists are invited to go on a "bird walk" sponsored by the Trenton Naturalist Club in the Princeton area. The tour will start at 7 a.m. on Sunday on Washington Road near Guyot Hall.

Charles H. Rogers, of Princeton, will be leader on the walk, which will continue throughout the day. He has noted that by this time the spring migration is approaching its height and sev-

Expectant Parents' Course. The Visiting Nurse Association will begin a series of five classes for expectant parents Tuesday, May 8, at 8 p.m. in the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. Approved by the Princeton physicians who practice obstetrics and pediatrics, the course will be directed by two registered nurses, Mrs. Andrew Burke and Mrs. Robert Dodson.

The opening topic, "How Does Your Baby Grow"—a talk about the period between conception and birth, will be followed by a May 15 discussion on good hygiene and nutrition during pregnancy. The other three topics, which will be considered on respective following Tuesdays, are "Labor and the Baby's Birthday," "Bath Time, Happy Time," and "Baby's Food Talk."

An agency of the United Community Fund, the Visiting Nurse Association offers such services as bedside nursing care, treatments, health supervision and instruction and rehabilitation aid for polio patients and crippled children. The Association may be contacted through physicians, by telephoning 1-1760 or through its office at 245 Nassau Street.

"A Lane of Shops." The 1956 Princeton Hospital Fete, scheduled for June 2 at Westminster Choir College, will offer several brand-new features this year, including "A Lane of Shops." Along the lane, according to Mrs. Edwin Carnarius, in charge of the appealing project, there will be five shops selling everything from fireplace fans to hobby horses.

The fans, plus such articles as knitting bags on wooden legs, tea trays on luggage stands, ascots and waste baskets covered with gay papers, will be sold by "The Artisan Shop," sponsored by the Princeton Garden Club. Mrs. Thomas P. Cook and Mrs. George A. Brakeley will serve as co-chairmen.

"The Treasure Island Shop," with the Unitarian Church and Princeton Hospital Aid Shop co-sponsoring and Mrs. Halford Jay and Mrs. Roy W. Williams handling arrangements, will display a variety of unusual items and also will include a popcorn stand. On sale will be costume jewelry, handkerchiefs, fabrics, hobby horses and choice surprises.

Mrs. James B. Brandon, president of the Princeton Friendship Club, will serve as chairman of her organization's booth. "The Friendship Apron Shop." As its name implies, the shop will feature homemade aprons, and potholders and tea towels, also made by club members.

"The Toy Shop," sponsored by the Hopewell Women's Club, will sell toys, balloons and grab-bag chances, while "The Flower Shop," sponsored by the University League Garden Club, will sell the re-potted contents of Mayor and Mrs. P. MacKay Sturges' hothouse. Mrs. Douglas S. Terhune and Mrs. James Thorpe will be the respective shop proprietors.

In addition to complete luncheons and an entertainment section for children, this year's Fete will highlight a well-stocked collectors' auction and its traditional flower show.

Jamieson Re-Elected Polio Head. Crawford Jamieson of Trenton has been re-elected chairman of the Mercer County Chapter Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. John E. Kerney of Princeton, a member of the Board of Directors, was named vice-chairman.

At the meeting, Mr. Jamieson announced that $92,145.55 had been raised in the 1956 campaign in Mercer County. Princeton led the county townships with a total of $12,882, while $6,550.35 was raised in Lawrenceville and Lawrence Township.

Mr. Kerney and Mrs. Martin J. Reef, another member of the Board of Directors, received five-year service certificates at the organization's meeting. A third Princeton resident, Mrs. Cevillie O. Jones, was also named to the group's governing board.

COMPLETING ARRANGEMENTS for the five classes for expectant parents are Mrs. Robert Dodson, the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, pastor of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Andrew F. Burke. Mrs. Dodson and Mrs. Burke represent the Visiting Nurse Association, sponsor of the program. For further details, see left.

Final Tax Rate

Official word on the county tax rate led to the final confirmation of tax rates in both municipalities here. The word in the Township: $7.48 per $100 of assessed valuation; $5.58 in the Borough.

The Township was subjected to the greatest jump in the county, through equalization of the tax table plus a hike in county rates. The total rise was $1.53 (up nearly 26% in one year).

The Borough has climbed by 27 points, but is still third lowest in the county. Though the Township tariff is supposedly the second highest in Mercer, the important difference in basis of assessment tends to equalize the nominal tax rate with the actual tax bill.

Swimming for the Handicapped. A special series of swimming classes for blind and physically handicapped children will be held from June 25 to July 27 by the Princeton Y.M.C.A. The project will be part of its "learn-to-swim" summer program.

The hour-long classes will be taught by Red Cross instructors and held twice weekly. According to the "Y" directors, they will not be therapeutic, but will follow the standard Red Cross course of instruction, adopted to the needs of the children involved. Classes will be limited to six childen.

Interested parents are requested to call Miss Jane McGrath at Pr. 1-5055-W for information. Because of the specialized nature of the classes, the Y.M.C.A. wants to know the number of possible registrants well in advance of actual registration.

TITLE BID: Eddie Donovan's Tigers will aim for first place in the Eastern League Saturday when they meet defending champion Yale here at 1 p.m.

Sports in Princeton

Big Yale - Princeton Weekend. One of the biggest Yale-Princeton weekends in years is on tap for the sportsminded, with unusual interest traceable not only to the wide variety of contests but to the fact that league championships will largely be determined by the outcome. As frosting on the cake is the unbeaten status of several of the teams whose records go on the line.

This is the schedule of headline events:

● 1:00 p.m. at University Field. Defending champion Yale, which began the week with a 6-0 record in league play, will meet Princeton, runner-up in the baseball standings with a 4-0 record.

● 2:30 p.m. on the Church Courts. Princeton and Yale will meet in tennis in a match expected to determine the Eastern Association champion. Yale won in 1955; both are unbeaten to date.

● 2:30 p.m. on Springdale Golf Course. Princeton and Yale will meet in a match in which victory will give the Tigers the Big Three title.

● 4:00 p.m. on University Field. Yale's lacrosse team faces Princeton after the ball game, with high hopes of scoring its first victory in the sport over the Tigers since 1932.

● 4:00 p.m. on Lake Carnegie. The first of three races among the freshman, junior varsity and varsity 150-lb. crews of Princeton, Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, with the varsities competing for the Goldthwait Cup.

Action between the two traditional rivals is also set for Connecticut. In New Haven, the track teams will stage their annual meet, while at Derby on the Housatonic River, the crews of Yale, Princeton and Cornell will row for the Carnegie Cup. All three entries in this traditional regatta have won all their races this spring.

In addition to the varsity events, Princeton and Yale freshmen will met in baseball, golf, tennis and lacrosse here and in track and crew in Connecticut. In one day (weather permitting!), athletic representatives of the universities will meet 16 times, a total that is probably unprecedented, since scheduling procedure in the past has not set every meeting between them in an entire season on one day.

Off the fact that it went into its game with Army on Wednesday with a 15-game winning streak in Eastern League baseball, Yale ranks as the favorite in its contest here Saturday. The Elis won all nine games last season and swept through their first six this spring.

A veteran team which generally hits well, plus strong pitching have kept the Blue on top. Probable starter Saturday will be Captain Ken McKenzie, who will be matched against Captain Jim Gibson in a southpaw duel. The Tigers split with McKenzie in 1955, losing to him 3-0 and then beating him, 4-3, with Dick Emery his opponent in each instance.

A pair of triumphs at Cambridge and Providence kept the Orange and Black unbeaten in league play last weekend. The Tigers rallied to trim Harvard, 6-4, and then hopped all over a Brown nine which has yet to win this season. It was a 10-2 final.

Two pinch hitters had to come through for Princeton in the Harvard game to erase a 4-2 deficit. In the top of the ninth with the bases loaded, Dave Silhanek hit safely to left, bringing Royce Flippin in from third.

The sacks were still jammed with Tigers when sophomore Garry Thrasher whacked a triple that sent Harvard to its first defeat in nine games. Craig McClelland set the losers down easily in the ninth to preserve the victory for starter Jim Gibson, for whom Thrasher had batted.

Leigh Ford went all the way at Providence, giving up only five hits. He fell a run behind in the third but Princeton tied the score in the fourth and made it 2-1 in the fifth.

Four runs in the seventh, three more in the eighth and another in the ninth made it a real rout—the first time this season the Nassau nine had reached double figures. Princeton collected only nine hits—the same number as at Harvard—but four Brown pitchers contributed 12 walks.

The Orange and Black took a four-game winning streak into the Penn contest Tuesday (see page 21) and was scheduled to play a return game Wednesday with Rutgers. The Scarlet was the only team to beat Princeton during the month of April, which saw Eddie Donovan's forces win six and tie N.Y.U. in addition to the 3-2 loss at New Brunswick.

Princeton, Cornell and Yale will meet at Derby Saturday in what shapes up as one of the best crew races in a number of seasons. After two winless years, the Tigers have come up with a powerful boatload that has been most impressive in trimming two Navy eights, Penn and Columbia.

Yale opened its season last Sat-

With Princeton and Yale meeting in 16 events Saturday at the freshman, junior varsity and varsity levels, Town Topics presents this run-down on the probable outcome of each contest:

Freshman: Princeton to win baseball, heavyweight and 150-lb. crew, golf and lacrosse. Yale to win tennis.

Junior varsity: Princeton to win 150-lb. crew. Yale to win heavyweight crew.

Varsity: Princeton to win baseball, 150-lb. crew and golf. Yale to win heavyweight crew, lacrosse, tennis and track.

urday with a victory over Penn that was somewhat surprising in its decisiveness. The Elis took the Quakers by four lengths over the short (1 5.16 miles) Henley distance—a tremendous margin over a crew that had five members back from the 1955 Eastern Sprint Champions and the winners of the Grand Challenge Cup in England.

Cornell, too, started with a victory, beating Syracuse and Navy on Lake Cayuga in a race that was shortened to a mile because of rough water. The Ithacans have seven of the eight men back who won the national regatta at Syracuse last year but have been hindered in their development this season by the late spring.

For that reason, expectations are that the race will be between Yale and Princeton, with the Elis slight favorites off their particularly strong race against Penn. Coach Dutch Schoch's crew is improving steadily, however, and may stage its third surprise of the season.

Other Sports. A surprise loss to Dartmouth in lacrosse last weekend by an 8-5 count provides clear indication that the long string of victories over Yale in the sport is in serious jeopardy. Herbert Hoover was still the tenant in the White House when the Elis last beat Princeton, but the troubles that have beset the Orange and Black this season indicate that continuation of the streak will be a major upset.

Princeton's tennis team is unbeaten in its first five matches but will have its hands full in tackling Yale. The Tigers' strength is largely in sophomores, with the visitors possibly having too much depth.

Georgetown took the golf team, 5-2, last week while it was beating Navy by a similar margin in a triangular match. However, Harry Kinnell's operatives are 6-1 on the season and may have enough to edge Yale. Fred Hovde at No. 1 has been the victor in all seven of his matches.

Yale figures to top the track team, having considerably superior depth. The Tigers are still without the services of Captain Gabe Markisohn, who pulled a muscle in the IC4-A indoor meet last February and has not been able to compete since.

Blue and White Record Intact. Having fared none-too-well in a pair of relay meets—most recently, the Penn Relays last weekend—Princeton High's track team this week set its sights on perpetuating its great unbeaten dual meet record, now resting at 53 straight. It was believed by observers that the Little Tigers' overall strength in the field events, plus one or two standout runners, will be able to do the trick.

Coach Winfield Niles' talented varsity got off to a fine start in the dual meet department a week ago, overpowering Hamilton High's track forces by a 94-29 margin. More of the same was expected early this week against Long Branch (see late results below), but there will be a serious test this Saturday afternoon in Lawrenceville, where the PHS team meets the only school to register a tie with the Little Tigers since 1947.

Paced by junior Nick Kovalakides, who scored three wins, Princeton proved its excellent field-event depth in the Hamilton debacle. Kovalakides tossed the javelin 181 feet 10 inches, eclipsing the old PHS record of 179 feet 3 inches that Tom Perks set in the 1952 state meet, and also came through with creditable distances in his discus and shot put victories.

Sophomore Roddy Pannell, in addition to gaining a first-place tie in the low hurdles, won the high and broad jumps for the Blue and White, while Win Niles Jr. soared 11 feet in the pole vault to complete Princeton's sweep of firsts in the field events (he was second in the broad jump). The Little Tigers finished 1-2-3 in the 880, high jump, pole vault and shot put.

At Penn's Franklin Field last Friday and Saturday, PHS relay quartets disappointed Coach Niles by managing nothing better than fourth place in class III competition in the mile race and only fourth in their heats in the quarter-mile and two-mile events. "Our performances showed that you've got to have four good men on a relay team," the coach noted, "because three won't do it."

In the 11-team mile match, won by Keene, N.H., in 3:38.1, Princeton was in the thick of things following Richie Hall's lead-off 440 in 51.9 and seemed to be holding its own until a bad baton pass from Bruce Nystrom, running No. 2, to Charles Humphreys sent PHS reeling to seventh place. Anchorman Gary Cortelyou, who captured the 880 against Hamilton, toured the final relay lap (about 450 yards) in 53.0 to push his team into its fourth-place finish.

Midget Loop Under Way. With five teams scheduled to play a full month and a half of games in each of its two divisions, the Princeton YMCA Midget Baseball League started 1956 competition this week on seven different diamonds. Contests will be conducted at 6:15 every evening, Monday through Friday, until June 12, when the League's annual best-of-three World Series is slated to begin. There will be no regular games on May 30, date of the pint-sizers' All-Star engagement.

Lined up in the League's American division this season will be the Yankees (sponsored by Hulit's), Red Sox (Princeton Kiwanis Club), Tigers (Princeton Lions Club), Orioles (American Legion Post 76) and Athletics (The Rug Mart). The National division will consist of the Dodgers (Princeton Rotary Club), Giants (Prince Chevrolet), Cardinals (Township Police Pistol Club), Braves (University Music Shop) and Pirates (Plainsboro Lions Club).

Ralph E. Papa, program secretary of the Y in charge of the Midget League schedule, said teams will be made up of YMCA youths only, from 9 to 12 years old. Standings will be kept by awarding four points for a win, one point for a loss, 2 points for a tie and two points for a forfeit. Bink Fisher will serve as umpire-in-chief, with Don Rugg and Ray Grover assisting on the loop's organizational committee.

Nos. 5 and 6 for Hun. Hithappy Hun School ran its undefeated baseball streak to six games last week, coming from behind in the late innings to edge Admiral Farragut, 11-10, and then blanking Stevens Academy, 9-0, both on the Red and Black's field. Delbarton will be here for a game this Thursday afternoon, followed by Solebury School in another home contest next Tuesday.

Coach Zig Emery's Princeton club received clutch hitting from Earl Cottrell for the second time in three games to finally catch the Little Sailors. With the bases loaded and the score tied 10-all in the seventh, Cottrell delivered a perfect squeeze bunt to bring home the winning run.

Bruce Davis, who led the Johnny Huns at the plate with three safeties, started on the mound, but was not his usual stingy self and was relieved by Shortstop Cottrell in the fourth during a five-run Farragut rally. In the fifth, when the losers tallied four more times, Davis returned from left field to pitch and earn his fourth win, with Cottrell moving back to short and sticking around for his vital bunt.

Against Stevens, which lost its fourth game in seven outings, Alan Shepard hurled a neat three-hitter, his best showing of the spring, and got excellent support afield and in the power department. Cottrell, Davis, Jim Laven and Pete Redner contributed two hits apiece and Frank Lewellen continued his run-producing efforts with a solid triple.

that has been made more ableBodied by the use of two-inch crossing bands under the bust line. This jacket is lined and collared with a mutely striped silk in dull gold, grey blue and taupe.

Dior blue silk has been used for a two-piece suit with permanently pleated skirt and jacket. The same striped fabric used on the jacket we described above has been incorporated into the edge of this jacket.

Cottons at Elise Goupil are Liberty Prints. A new one this year has a soft blue background printed with cornflowers and white Queen Anne's lace in miniature. This dress is unadorned except for small slashes at the neckline.

Other Liberty cottons this year have organdy or net inserts at the yoke or across a wide skirt. There is a white dress with tiny block flowers, and a more assertive print that has thin turquoise leaves and pale pink strawberries.

Linen is a natural. This natural linen has navy flowers and navy scallops around its wide neckline. Skirt is straight. Linen pairs naturally with silk in a two-piece dress.

The silk dress is soft and the color of thick cream with occasional red carnations arranged against it. A curved linen bolero repeats the carnation red.

Busy Little Fingers. Next time there is a rainy day or a germ, you can amuse your child with a new cut-out set from Nassau Paint, 126 Nassau. For a dollar, you have a series of cut-out pieces imprinted on a light-weight construction paper.

There is a mobile to cut out and balance, a tree made of several interlocking pieces so that it stands up, a puzzle with pieces to cut out and paste on a printed outline, various miscellany like place cards, Hallowe'en or Valentine characters, animals, and so on. Paste pot, brush and scissors are included.

Here's more occupational therapy in the form of a pretzel basket. Costs 60c. A companion flower-pot holder is 70c, and both kits include all you need to weave the basket. More weaving in another set that holds a bead loom and phials of colored beads to make an Indian head-band.

A book of stencils for children —very little children, we'd say— has trains, cars, figures of skaters, stars, animals and the like. Mothers who aren't sure of their talents could use these stencils as decor for play-room furniture, toys, and so on.

Older boys and girls who have been snared by the paint-a-number fad might like a new series of zoo pictures to paint in oils. There are two pictures to a box—bears, pandas, lions and other inmates.

Nassau Paint is a versatile shop. Here's a little fire extinguisher that's unique because it doesn't wear itself out in one squirt. Use it, close the cap, use it again. Douses electrical, gasoline, wood, or paper fires, and even dries out the wiring of your car or boat on a clammy morning. What else could $1.95 do?

this week on a basis of its ability to stave off last-inning rallies by the opposition. The Blue and White edged Witherspoon School, 7-6, and then trimmed the Peddie School Juniors, 6-5.

Witherspoon took a 2-1 lead in the contest played Friday at Marquand Park, but PCD evened the count in the second and then pushed across five runs in the next two innings. The losers reached winning pitcher Johnny Cook for three in the final round, but he killed the rally with a good cut-off throw to shortstop Webb Harrison at second for the final out. Bob Swinnerton, John Pinelli and Dick Thompson all hurled for Witherspoon.

A five-run first inning got Country Day off to a good start in its home opener against Peddie. The Blue and White picked up one more in the third, with the visitors scoring five times in the fifth.

Cook has been the winning pitcher in all three games, each of which PCD has won by one run. A return contest against Lawrence Junior High, its first victim, was set for Wednesday.

Question of the Week

are too busy with other violations without looking into every Princeton backyard. What's more, the Borough doesn't collect the items we burn in incinerators, so that would be another expense for the taxpayers if collection became necessary. I think they'll forget about us—this is a friendly area.

Mrs. Fred Traegler, 28 Chestnut Street, housewife: I have an awful lot of paper every day, and it would be a terrible inconvenience if I really couldn't use my incinerator. I always stay outside and watch them burn, so there's no danger involved. In short, it's silly for this area, where there's absolutely no pollution in the air.

Tony Ferrara, 230 Witherspoon Street, VA firefighter in Somerville: There's no air pollution here. How about the merchants along Nassau Street? If they can't use their incinerators, collectors will have to come in several times a day. That would be too expensive. And it's crazy to think of the police wasting their time trying to enforce it. I believe we'll need a local ordinance to make sure Princeton is excluded from the statewide code.

IS YOUR TV ANTENNA SAFE?

If your television antenna is near power lines it is a source of real danger! TV antennas are metal—a conductor of electricity. If your antenna touches a power line, electricity can be carried into your home through the lead-in wire right to your TV set. This may result in a fire and personal injury.

SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

1. Place your antenna most so that if it should swing or fall no part of it will come closer than six feet to an electric power line.

2. Make sure that the structure to which the mast is fastened is strong enough to carry the added weight — allowing for wind, ice and vibration.

3. Anchor the TV mast securely using rust resistant fittings.

4. Strengthen antennas more than ten feet high with at least three equally-spaced guy wires made of rust-resistant cable. Add a set of guy wires for every ten feet on taller masts.

5. Have your TV antenna installation checked every year or two.

Bunts Trip Penn. Along about the first inning of the Penn-Princeton baseball game Tuesday, Coach John McCloskey of the Quakers (who this week was also named basketball coach) ordered his team to bunt. The Red and Blue began to lay the ball down with none, one or even two out, but because Princeton sophomore Ed Seaman backed his low-thrown pitches with top-flight fielding, it got the visitors nowhere.

Along about the fifth inning, Coach Eddie Donovan started his outfit bunting and the move paid off in what has become almost traditional fashion. Big Bill Assif, 210-lb. Quaker moundsman, could not stay with the pesky push shots the Tigers dropped down the third base line and the result was that the Orange and Black broke a close game wide open.

No better than 1-1 after 5⅓ innings, Princeton picked up one more in the sixth, two in the seventh and five in the eighth. The losers crossed the plate once more in the ninth, but it was a 9-2 final and southpaw Ed Seaman had pitched himself a very impressive ball game. With topflight support at the shotstop position, his first start and first complete game on the varsity would have been a solid, six-hit shutout.

Seaman had a streak of wildness (he hit three batters and committed a wild pitch that set up the first Penn run) but by and large he took care of the Red and Blue pretty much as he pleased. His sharp curve was breaking well, he had the losers biting at pitches around their shins and lower, and he was on base three times through a hit and two errors. The 19-year old Perth Amboy resident has a bright future ahead of him here.

Penn finally used three pitchers in trying to stem the late Princeton attack, which was good for 11 hits. The Quakers also weighed in with half a dozen errors, five of which directly contributed to the Princeton scoring.

Shortstop Larry Durante was the victors' big man with the bat, getting three for four. John Wert, Tom Quay and Bill Agnew each collected two apiece, with the big offense coming as late as the eighth inning when seven Princetonians reached base safely before one was retired.

Another Track Record. Close-to-home tutoring paid off in a big way for Princeton High on Tuesday afternoon as Co-Captain Win Niles Jr., son of Coach Winfield Niles, set a new PHS pole vault mark of 12 feet 2½ inches. The state champion's effort erased the previous record of 11 feet 9 inches, made by Augie Friel back in the late '30s, and gave the Little Tigers their second school record in less than a week.

Young Niles went over the bar in outstanding fashion while he and his teammates were topping a better-than-expected Long Branch track team, 62-55, for Princeton's 54th consecutive dual performance without setback and the 1956 club's second home conquest. Actually, PHS won 10 of 13 first places and had the meet wrapped up early, but the Branchers accumulated a number of seconds and thirds late in the afternoon to close the gap.

Nick Kovalakides, who set a school javelin standard last week (see earlier story, above), grabbed three more firsts—in the javelin, discus and shot put—to dominate the Little Tigers' victorious assault against the shore visitors. His javelin throw, a creditable 178 feet 7 inches, was only three feet under his record heave.

Two other standout Princeton performers were Richie Hall, with a winning time of 51.7 seconds in the quarter, and Gary Cortelyou, who captured the 880 with a 2:05 clocking. Coach Niles expressed great delight over his son's splendid vault and his team's many firsts, which netted PHS 50 points, but he was concerned over the all-too-apparent lack of depth, which resulted in only 12 points elsewhere along the line.

Little Tigers Split Pair. Finally gaining some confidence and, of equal importance, some base hits, Princeton High came from behind Tuesday afternoon and shaded Hamilton High, 6-5, for victory No. 1 of the current baseball campaign. The home game was postponed from last Thursday, when the rains again came.

Princeton's winning run was scored in the sixth inning on an unusual play. Trying to pull a squeeze maneuver, Dave Britton missed his bunt, but lanky Lee Ammerman, already well on his way home, succeeded in reaching the plate before Hamilton's catcher could get organized.

Third Baseman John Gantz, now leading the PHS batters with a healthy .445 average, collected two of the Little Tigers' five safeties (most of them in the late frames) to pace the winners. Ten walks from the visiting pitcher, plus some clutch hurling by Princeton's Howie Phox, who went the distance, also aided the victors' cause.

Coach Morrill Shepard's Little Tigers dropped their third straight contest at home Monday, before Tuesday's success, when a strong Trenton High nine racked up an impressive shutout, 9-0. Alan Ammerman's leadoff blooper in the first and Gantzs' fluke single in the sixth were the sole hits PHS could muster against Jerry Golembeski, who has yet to lose in two years on Trenton varsity.

Russ Watson, the other half of Coach Shepard's mound staff, went all the way against THS, allowing eight hits but only three earned runs. Four Little Tiger miscues contributed heavily to the one-sided encounter.

Despite the miserable showing Monday and Princeton's anemic .172 team average, including Tuesday's triumph, Coach Shepard said he expects to see his club pick up against Long Branch this Friday, at the shore, and Lawrenceville next Wednesday, in Lawrenceville.

Softball Season Starting. First games between teams in the Princeton Community Softball League, which will continue competition throughout the summer, were schedule to be played this week, with all eight clubs participating. Henceforth, the teams will do battle every Tuesday evening at 6:15 on four Princeton diamonds—Marquand, Fitzpatrick, Goldie and Laughlin.

Forming the loop in 1956 will be teams representing Frazee's Seafood, ASCOP, Oddfellows Lodge, Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, World Federalists, Hopewell Fire Department, Drake's Plumbing & Heating of Belle Mead and the Nassau Social Club. Off its fine pennant-winning performance last season, the latter organization was favored to capture honors again this summer.

Bink Fisher, secretary-treasurer of the league, said it has been formed this season by an interested group of private individuals, succeeding the YMCA and, for the last few years, Eagles' sponsorship. Joe Baldino will serve as president, Jack Petrone as vice-president and Mike Kopliner as commissioner.

Hun Over Tower Hill. Coach Zig Emery's high-riding Hun baseball club went all the way to Wilmington on Tuesday to meet Tower Hill, but the trip was well worth it. The Red and Black looked impressive in defeating the Delaware school, 6-2, for its seventh straight win.

Bo Davis, now 5-0 for the season, pitched another tight game for the Johnny Huns, striking out a dozen and walking none. One of Jim Lavan's two hits in four trips was a homer, helping Davis appreciably, while Earl Cottrell batted four for four and George Cramer and Frank Lewellen chipped in with two safeties apiece.

Spring, 1956 Style. The birds and the bees and the sun all broke out in unison this past week as spring finally arrived in Princeton, more than a month behind its official coming-out party.

In addition to many other things, this "real" spring was baseball weather. Players felt more like playing than at any time since the 1956 season opened, and it was a mighty fine sensation just being outside.

Princeton High baseball participants, doing battle with Trenton High at the PHS field Monday, exhibited this spring-is-here exhilaration, but with an added twist. Perhaps for the first time locally, or maybe anywhere, comely coeds adorned the Princeton Youth Retreat. Young people from seven churches in the Princeton area will travel to Delaware Water Gap this weekend for a Church Youth Retreat at Camp Pahaquarra.

The group will leave Princeton High School at 4 p.m. this Friday and will return Sunday afternoon. The final word on the Retreat will be given at a "Singspiration" which will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Princeton Battlefield Park, Mercer Street.

The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church will be the featured speaker at the Friday and Saturday sessions of the Retreat. All arrangements for the event have been made by young people's groups from First, Second and Witherspoon Presbyterian churches, Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, Plainsboro Presbyterian, Princeton Methodist and Lutheran Church of the Messiah.

Toilers in the Fields. A work day devoted to clearing, planting and general repair will be held this Saturday from 9 a.m. at Stony Brook Meeting House on Quaker Road. (Rain date: May 12.) Members of Princeton Meeting, Society of Friends, attenders of Meeting and parents of children enrolled in the First Day School will spend the day on work projects scheduled by the Property Committee under the leadership of Richard Stoddard.

The rural, wooded nature of the Friends' property makes such annual work days essential, and those who attend on Saturday will spend the day with weed killers, pruning shears, rakes and shovels. It is the custom of Princeton Meeting to do this work cooperatively rather than to pay for having it done commercially.

Birthday Celebration. Men of the First Presbyterian church will celebrate the 250th birthday of the Presbyterian church in America when the Men's Association meets next Thursday at 8:15 p.m.

This anniversary will be observed at the May meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church to be held in Philadelphia and the purpose of the Princeton meeting is to acquaint the men of the church with plans for this event.

Dr. J. Arthur Lazell, executive secretary for the General Assembly's Committee on Observing the 250th anniversary, will speak on the role of the church in the nation, the community and the personal life of its members.

Spring Gardens on View. Eleven gardens in Moorestown, New Jersey will be open next Wednesday to members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey. This "Garden Day" is sponsored by the Auxiliary in order to raise money to send delegates to the organization's triennal meeting.

The gardens will be open from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. In case of rain, the tour will be held the following day. Those who wish to go on the tour may obtain a list of homes and addresses from Trinity church, 1-2277.

Bulletin Notes. Princeton's Jewish Center has put the "for sale" sign on its 25 by 45-foot building. Buyer must move the structure to his own lot. . . . A feature-length film, "The Unfinished Task" will be shown next Saturday, May 12 at a family dinner for members of Messiah Lutheran church. The film was produced by the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, to which Messiah belongs. . . . Geneva Fellowship study groups of the First Presbyterian church will hold a square dance for members and guests this Saturday at 8 p.m. at Princeton Country Day School. Mr. and Mrs. Richard King are in charge of reservations. . . . The Methodist Rummage Sale is this Thursday and Friday at the church.

Judging from the course the game took—as reported on page 21 — the Little Tigers needed considerable support, and at least had their 1956-style bench-warmers to keep their afternoon bright).

Lawrenceville Topics

Three-Car Collision. Three residents of Lawrenceville were occupants of a sedan that rolled over twice and landed on its top in an accident Monday which damaged three vehicles. The accident occurred in late afternoon at Lawrenceville Road and Fairfield Avenue.

Mrs. Anna Alloway, 55; her daughter, Mrs. Edith A. Tighe, 34, and Mrs. Tighe's son, Thomas, 15, all of 32 Henderickson Avenue, were in the car struck by a garage service truck operated by Richard Albertson, 18, of 134 Hoover Avenue.

Police said the brakes of the truck failed at the intersection and struck the left side of the car driven by Mrs. Alloway. The truck also hit the auto of William W. Goodwin, 41, of 743 Trumbull Avenue, Albertson was charged with operating a vehicle with defective brakes.

The Lawrence Township Emergency First Aid Squad took Mrs. Alloway, Mrs. Tighe and the child to Mercer Hospital, where they were treated for bruises and later released. The other drivers were unhurt.

"First Aid Month." Monday's rapid assistance furnished by the First Aid Squad demonstrated once again the practical service rendered to the community by the unit, typifying activities which have led to the recognition of the tenth anniversary of its founding by a proclamation making May "First Aid Month" in the township.

Mayor J. Russell Smith in issuing the proclamation called on all citizens to pay special tribute to the volunteers who provide free ambulance service and emergency first aid treatment to the community around the clock.

Two rather startling statistics highlighted by the mayor were: nearly 50% of the squad's calls last year were made to assist victims of heart attacks in the community; and in ten years, some 2,000 citizens of Lawrence have been aided by the volunteer group.

The First Aid Squad now comprises 23 men and women making their services available; it owns its own building, ambulance and modern emergency equipment. In its current fund raising campaign, the squad is seeking $4,500 in contributions to meet operating costs.

Library Bake Sale. The Library Committee of Lawrenceville will hold a bake sale this Saturday at 10 a.m. in front of the Jigger Shop, with the proceeds to be turned over to the library fund. In the event of rain, the sale will be in the Youth Center.

Donations should go to Mrs. Jonathan Benson, who is in charge of the event. Mrs. Daniel Longhi is chairman of the committee. The library is now in operation from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Wednesdays.

Women's Club Meeting. The Lawrenceville Women's Club will hear John R. Strehen of Cold Soil Road speak on television and advertising at its meeting this Tuesday at 3:15. The club will meet at the home of Mrs. George Gretton.

Hostesses for the occasion will be Mrs. J. K. D. Travers, Mrs. Thomas A. Simpson, Mrs. James H. Wakelin, Mrs. David D. Wicks and Mrs. Gretton.

Princeton architect Philetus Holt, was built by Williams, Allentown, Pa. Those desiring to serve as spotters should ca:" John W. French (1-5489) for further information.

Miscellany. Sons have been born at Princeton Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Luis Nanni, 9 Grover Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Zinsmeister, Jr., Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brinkerhoff, Belle Mead; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gobeen, 1 Orchard Circle; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Casserly, 54 Cuyler Road; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Manuel, 197 Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck.

Parents of daughters include Mr. and Mrs. Lester Anderson, Cherry Hill Road; Mr. and Mrs. Hassler Whitney, 301 Western Way; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wisbeski, RD 1, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gunnell, 36 Birch Avenue.

Howard Schrader, Princeton Junction free-lance photographer, won a gold medal in a national contest conducted by the Grafiex Camera Corporation. His entry, a picture of glass-blowing in Palmer Physical Laboratory, where he is the official photographer, is on display in the national photographic show at the New York Colliseum.

Curtis Johnson of 101 Broadmead won the Teen-age Road-E-O contest sponsored last weekend by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Robert Hall and Thomas Hill were second and third.

Johnson will represent the Princeton Jaycees in the state Road-E-O at Salem. Judges on Saturday included Patrolman Stanley Donald of the Borough Police, Sergeant John Seeley of the Township and Samuel Bahadurian of the Jaycees.

In an unusual case in Township Court this week, Thomas G. LaBarr, 15 Bank Street, a reporter for the Princetin Packet, was found guilty of interferring with and obstructing the work of firemen at a weekend kitchen blaze in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Van Zandt, 62 Wheatsheaf Lane. Magistrate Louis R. Gerber warned the defendant that members of the press are not lawfully permitted on the premises where a fire is in progress, then suspended a $5 fine. The complaint against the newspaperman was signed by Borough Police Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan, 278 Hamilton Avenue, who was on duty with the fire department at the Township incident.

An exhibition of water colors by H. Lester Cooke and Elizabeth Miles Cooke will be on display at the Present Day Club from 9 to 6:30, daily except Sunday, throughout May. Mr. Cooke, former member of the University Art Department, has won a Fulbright Scholarship and the American Prix de Rome, and is now associated with the National Gallery in Washington. Scenes include those in France, England, Italy, Majorca and the Canary Islands.

Classes in golf for beginners will be conducted on 10 Wednesday mornings beginning next week under YWCA auspices. An extension of the "Mother's Morning Out" program, they will be taught by John Brown, assistant professional at the Springside Club. Further details are available through the YW at 202 Nassau Street.
